initiated by the President of Latvia pursuant to the procedure set forth in Article 47 of the Constitution. Besides draft laws, the Committee also considers and prepares for further consideration by the Saeima draft policy planning documents and resolutions.

The Committee's scope of competence includes laws and regulations relating to national security, national defence, internal affairs, justice, and prevention of corruption. Other areas of competence can also be established on the basis of a decision by the Saeima.

The Committee considers policy planning documents such as the State Defence Concept and the State Defence ▶

■ Meeting of the Defence, Internal Affairs and Corruption Prevention Committee

Plan and is involved in the advancement of draft resolutions of the Saeima as specified in the law, assessing the justification of a declared state of emergency and the nominations for approval or dismissal of officials appointed by the Saeima: the Commander of the National Armed Forces and the Head of the Corruption Prevention and Combating Bureau.

Parliamentary scrutiny

Article 27 of the Constitution explicitly authorises the Saeima to exercise parliamentary scrutiny:

The Saeima shall have the right to submit to the Prime Minister or to an individual Minister requests and questions which either they, or a responsible government official duly authorised by them, must answer. The Prime Minister or any other Minister shall furnish the relevant documents and enactments requested by the Saeima or by any of its committees.

This right is further reinforced by Article 172 of the Rules of Procedure of the Saeima:

A committee shall have the right, without the Presidium's mediation, to directly request the information and explanations necessary for its work from the respective Minister and the institutions subordinated to or supervised by him/her, as well as from local governments. The committee itself may summon the appropriate officials to provide the required comments.

The Defence, Internal Affairs and Corruption Prevention Committee carries out parliamentary scrutiny over the following public institutions: the Ministry of Defence and its subordinate institutions, the Ministry of the Interior and its subordinate institutions, the Ministry of Justice and its subordinate institutions, as well as other public institutions.

The Committee, together with the State Audit Office, supervises the use of the state budget.

International relations

The Committee is involved in the following international activities:

- Cooperation with NATO institutions on issues pertaining to Latvia's participation in the collective defence system
- Cooperation with the European Parliament on issues relating to the Common Foreign and Security Policy, as well as the justice and home affairs policy of the European Union
- Participation in the Joint Parliamentary Scrutiny Group on Europol
- Participation in the Europol Joint Parliamentary Scrutiny Group
- Bilateral cooperation with the EU and NATO member states
- Bilateral cooperation with third countries in the framework of NATO and the European Neighbourhood Policy

Cooperation with NGOs

The Committee involves representatives of NGOs in the preparation and adoption of draft laws by considering suggestions and proposals submitted in writing, as well as by inviting representatives of NGOs to take part in Committee meetings.

The Committee discusses topical issues on security and public order with representatives of NGOs and involves them in debates on draft policy planning documents.

The Committee considers submissions, complaints and proposals filed by private entities in accordance with the procedure set forth in relevant legal acts.

Subcommittees

The Committee has established two subcommittees—the Comprehensive National Defence Subcommittee and the Internal Security Subcommittee.

The agendas of the Committee meetings and other information about issues considered by the Committee are available on the Committee's website <http://aizsardziba.saeima.lv/>. ■
